PASADENA OFFICE WINS NATIONAL AWARD

At its 2006 national conference held late last year, the National Workforce Association (NWA) presented its Workforce Development Award for Excellence - Urban One-Stop System to The WorkSource – Pasadena office. Office manager, Paul Van Ast, accepted the award from NWA president, John Twomey.

The National Workforce Association is a membership organization that provides expertise and input to federal, state and local elected officials to enable them to make sound policy decisions about the workforce system. It promotes innovation and excellent performance in locally based workforce programs through conferences, training sessions, publications and peer-to-peer exchanges. Members include workforce organizations, educational institutions, and corporations

Each year, the NWA presents its annual Awards for Excellence to one honoree in each of four categories— Urban One-Stop System, Rural One-Stop System, Innovative Services To Businesses, and Executive Director.

CONGRATULATIONS PASADENA...KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK!
